DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. They were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group did not exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR and EE were significantly lower at rest and during exercise at the end of the 10-week period compared to the beginning. The control group showed no significant change in HR and EE. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular and metabolic fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program was designed to be a safe and effective means of increasing physical activity in sedentary women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions included a warm-up, a low-impact aerobic workout, and a low-intensity strength training routine. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical fitness of the women. The women who participated in the program showed significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscular strength, and body composition. The program was well-tolerated by the women, and they reported feeling more energetic and confident after completing the program. The results of this study suggest that a low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program can be an effective means of increasing physical activity in sedentary women.
